CFG ls Brieted on Roads Issues; Holds Annual Membership Meeting

by Barbara Likowski

An overall view of transportation issues in the Greenbelt area was given by Frank Derro, at the Citizens for Greenbelt (CFG) annual meeting on Thursday, March 2. Derro is on the staff of the transportation planning division, Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Derro spoke about what is presently contained in the Master Plan for the Greenbelt area.

At the urging of those present, he concentrated on potential plans for Kenilworth Avenue. Using a large map of the area, he drew circles around the major employment areas in the county: Greenbelt, Laurel, Bowie, Largo, the University of Maryland, Port America, and Andrews Air Force Base, where thousands of jobs are expected to be added in the next few years. This increase will expand the need for added transportation facilities, he said.

Derro explained that SubRegion I on the Master Plan, the area north of Greenbelt, is rapidly developing. Planning and zoning are an attempt to make sure supporting facilities will be in place to cope with the density of population and employment.

One problem is how to get people to and from the employment centers efficiently and economically. Nine out of 10 people will probably do it by car, Derro said. As an example he noted that two-thirds of the people going to work in the District of Columbia go by car—one-third single car drivers and one-third in car or van pools. The remaining third use public transportation. Thus, said Derro, more roads are needed.

Derro listed two proposed road changes that would affect Greenbelt: an extension of Kenilworth Avenue, and a planned closing of the Crescent Road/Kenilworth Avenue intersection across from the District III offices. Becuse the intersection is too close to the Beltway exit, it will be moved to Ivy Lane. However, how to do it is for Greenbelt to decide, he said, because it is a local issue.

On the other hand, Kenilworth Avenue is needed for north-south traffic. Because I-95, the B-W Parkway, and Route 1 also serve north-south traffic, Derro believes that Kenilworth will serve mostly for local trips, most of them originating or ending in Greenbelt. To back up this contention, he explained that Kenilworth will be a major arterial to a two-million sq. ft. office building near the College Park Metro station, Westchester, Golden Triangle, Capital Office Park and Greenway Center. East of Springhill Lake and the railroad there are hundreds of acres of industrially zoned land; however, much of it is flood plain. Three thousand parking spaces will be needed for the Greenbelt Metro station. There will be a lot of interest, Derro said, for development in the Greenbelt Metro area. All of this means a need for roads, but Kenilworth will be a crucial link.

Eunice Coxon lamented the proposal to fill in wetlands such as Schrom Hills, the Metro area and Greenhorne and O'Mara. Metro is a foregone conclusion, Derro answered, but the transit authority does have to meet federal requirements. That is one reason they are behind schedule with the Greenbelt Metro station.

To a complaint from Marsha Barrett that it is not possible to cross Kenilworth Avenue safely on foot, Derro replied that when the new intersection was planned 10 years ago, homes in Berwyn Heights and Greenbelt were miles from the intersection and people "shouldn't want to walk" there. He added that bike and hiker trails were added to many of the roads.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld asked if there were any backup plans for an alternate route, should the wetlands prevent further extension. Derro thought that it would be difficult but not impossible to find an alternative.

To Ann Pisano's query about why more roads are needed, since the county executive had announced a slowing down of development, Derro indicated that these plans are for providing "transportation movements" for what had already been approved. Since development tends to go in cycles, he added, five years or so from now when development picks up again, the roads will be there. There are just pockets of land left to be developed in Greenbelt, he said, but south of Greenbelt there are thousands of acres. As long as these stay in private hands, they will eventually be developed. The only way to stop it is for the county to own it as parkland.

When Pisano asked what impact citizens could have on the Master Plan, Derro replied that citizens have to go to every public hearing on the Master Plan and make themselves heard.

Membership Actions

CFG's meeting took place before and after the speaker. President Marvin Holmes presided.

Membership chairman Eunice Coxon introduced Benjamin Abramowitz, local artist, sculptor and teacher, who was to announce the winner of CFG's logo contest. "There are no winners, no losers," Abramowitz said. He went on to explain why none of the entries had been chosen. Although there were good entries, none represented the Citizens for Greenbelt but seemed more environmental. Most also could not be easily reproduced for letterheads, as logos are usually used. Abramowitz thought it was important for contestants to research the history of the organization. "The logo has to last a long time," he said. 'It has to be very simple." "We want someone to win this as much as you want to win it," he added. "We should be able to produce one little logo."

He offered an hour of his time to anyone who needs it and started that evening by meeting in the hall with some of the contestants who were present. Coxon announced that the contest would remain open and that all Greenbelters from high school age on up would be elegible to enter.

School Site Vote

Secretary Ruth Kastner explained to members that although CFG members had voted in favor of a new school at the North End school site at the previous meeting, the motion was null. A perusal of CFG minutes had resulted in finding that at the 1987 annual meeting, the group had voted in favor of using North End for a community center. In order for the organization to vote in favor of using the North End property as a school site, she said, the first motion would have to be rescinded and then another vote taken. This could be done at this meeting, she said, but since notice had not been given it would take a two-thirds vote. If notice had been given, only a majority vote would be needed.

Barry Schleslinger, chairman of the planning and zoning committee, offered three issues that he hoped the group would act on. (1) a request by Greenhorne and O'Mara for rezoning of a tract of land near Westchester Park presently zoned residential (Yeager tract); (2) a bill before the state legislature that would exclude the directors of the Park and Planning Commission from the merit system; and (3) a bill which would change the rules for night zoning hearings so that 25 parties-of-record would be needed and also the support of the council member who lived in that district. The group voted to support the need for only 10 parties-of-record and no council member support. The first two failed.

A bylaw change was passed to allow the membership to set the amount of dues. Coxon then moved that dues be increased to $2 per year, effective May 1. This also passed overwhelmingly.

Sandy Bowers, for the nominating committee, presented the following slate of candidates for the 1989-90 year: president, Marvin Holmes; vice-president, Julian Weiss; secretary, Ruth Kastner; treasurer, Alan Freas. Ruth Kastner was nominated for president from the floor. There was no second to the nomination. The slate of candidates was then voted by acclamation. Later Ruth Kastner pointed out that she had looked at the bylaws and could find no need for a second to a nomination. She added that she was just bringing it up so that this would be on the record for another time.

Holmes appointed Betty Maffay and Leonie Penney to an ad hoc audit committee. He also announced that there was no chair for the transportation or health committee and asked members to consider taking on one of these jobs.

SCHROM HILLS PARK MASTER PLAN TOPIC OF PUBLIC MEETING

by Betsy Likowski

The public is invited to comment on the master plan for the new Schrom Hills Park at a public meeting to be held Monday March 13 at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers. The current master plan for the park has evolved from three earlier sessions last year, at which citizens talked about what they would like to see in the park. City consultant Grace Fielder, of Greenman & Pedersen of Laurel, then put these ideas into a plan for the park.

At the first public hearing on June 15 citizens gave Fielder a wish list of ideas for the park. At the second meeting on September 27 she presented two plans for the park showing how various recreation facilities could be placed in the area.

The plan shown at the November meeting by the consultant was the one picked by the citizens, with added suggestions from the September 27 meeting.

Schrom Hills Park is a 41-acre site located north and east of Hanover Parkway and south of Greenbrook development. $415,000 will be available to develop the park, mostly from the city's $6 million bond issue and from grants. The city is still trying to acquire several more acres for the park.

Master Plan Description

The master plan for the park calls for the entrance to be located across from Space Court, with parking and two small buildings (one rest room/storage, one concession/office) nearby, and an allè, an aisle formed by a formal planting of trees, leading north into the park.

On either side of the allè area will be ball fields, one a softball field and the other a combined soccer and football field. Because of topographical and geological considerations, the fields would have to be located at the southern end of the park.

The northern section of the park will have a pond or will remain as wetlands, for it will function as a stormwater management facility. A maintenance trail will run around it and through the park. The central section of the park will remain in its wooded, natural state.

Other suggestions for the park include: nature trail through the wooded area, informal play area, picnic areas, playgrounds, a sledding hill on the steep eastern slope and wildflower plantings on the steep western slope along Hanover Parkway.

Three issues were in contention at the planning sessions: the pond, ballfield lights and parking.

It is still not known whether a pond will be built in the northern end of the park or whether the area will remain as wetlands. The United States Army Corps of Engineers will make the decision. The Corps believes wetlands help filter out pollutants and silt.

The question of whether to put lights at the ballfields excited much controversy. Neighbors of the park do not want lights, but citizens associated with sports teams have said there is a real need for more lighted ballfields in the city, (see News Review 12/22/88).

Ninety parking spaces are called for in the master plan of the park. People have expressed concern that there may not be enough parking spaces.

At the November 22 meeting Fielder estimated that the total construction cost would be $1,073,967. Of this, $416,300 would be the cost for clearing, grading, site landscaping and associated activities.

The softball area is estimated to cost $144,387, including fence, bleachers, backstop, with $11,000 for lighting the parking lot and field. The soccer field is estimated to cost $112,815 with, again, $11,000 for parking and field lighting.

Development of the allè would cost $257,588, with $104,000 allotted for surface paving stones and $63,000 for the two small buildings.

Other park facilities were estimated to cost a total of $142,876. These would include an eight-foot paved path, $32,940; an eight-foot unpaved path, $23,000, and playground equipment $15,000.

The city council's Advisory Planning Board (APB) reviewed the Schrom Hills Park master plan on February 1. It recommended: no lighting for the ballfields; shifting the softball field to provide room for expansion of the parking area; asking the consultant to re-evluate the need for parking at the park; recommending that council seek funds for the completion of Hanover Parkway, including sidewalk; and if no pond is built, having council allocate additional funds to design amenities for the wetlands.

The city council's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) has reviewed the master plan but has yet to issue a report. Chair Keith Chernikoff said that PRAB has some disagreements with the plan.

Three Stabbed in Fracas, Two Persons Arrested

An argument between two groups in front of the AMC 6 theaters at Beltway Plaza early Sunday evening, March 5, ended in multiple stabbings. According to a report by Pfc. David A. Buerger, of the Greenbelt Police Dept., when police arrived they found three victims.

Investigation indicated the fracas began with a verbal argument which became physical between one member of each group. A 16-year-old male, armed, with a 4-inch buck knife then charged the group, stabbing three of those on the other side. The three victims were transported to Prince Georges General Hospital. Two had single stab wounds to the abdomen, and one received a stab wound to the left elbow. The police report that the three victims were listed in stable condition later that evening.

Greenbelt police then began an extensive search through Beltway Plaza for the parties involved. The 16-year-old was located in the parking lot. He was arrested and charged with three counts of assault with intent to murder and was released to his mother. His name is being withheld because he is a juvenile. Police also arrested an unidentified man they believe participated in the physical confrontation. He was charged with assault.

Error Found

I stand by my statement that the school board's claim that the North End site is somehow closer to more students is incorrect. However, I have found an error in my calculation of straight-line student distances to Center School and the North End site. My corrected figure is that the North End site is, on average, 15% farther from the student population than Center School, not 29% as I previously reported.

Although the school board has yet to substantiate their claim, I would be happy to provide data supporting my own conclusions upon request.

Charles P. Hagelgans

CFG Action Is Void

Citizens for Greenbelt has found that the motion passed at its special meeting of January 26 in favor of a new school at the North End site with conditions is in conflict with a previous position adopted by CFG at its annual meeting of March 26, 1987. That motion said that CFG supports the North End Community Center project. Therefore, according to Robert's Rules of Order, the recent motion in favor of a new school at the North End site is null and void.

In order for CFG to pass a motion supporting a new school, it would first have to rescind the 1987 motion supporting the North End Center. This would require a two-thirds vote if no prior notice is given and a simple majority if notice is given.

Driver Loses His Life In Two-Truck Collision

The driver of a pick-up truck lost his life late Monday morning, March 6, when he lost control of his vehicle, struck a refuse truck and ran into a ditch, according to a report by Pfc. David A. Buerger of the Greenbelt Police Department. The driver was headed south on Edmonston Rd. just south of Cherrywood Lane. He was transported to Prince Georges Hospital where he was later pronounced dead as a result of his injuries.

The Beltsville refuse truck, which had been headed north on Edmonston Road, flipped onto its side following the impact. The driver received only minor injuries and did not require medical assistance at the scene, police said. Police believe weather and road conditions were a contributing factor, but the exact cause of the accident was still under investigation.

Magnet School Application Procedures Outlined

Two options — the "first-come first-served" general session and a lottery — are available to register applications for the Prince Georges County School System's magnet school programs for the 1989-90 school year.

For the first option, an application for each child needs to be submitted in person at the "first-come first-served" session on Friday, Mar. 17, at Largo High School, 505 Largo Road, Largo. Multiple applications may be submitted by one individual at this session, as long as all such applications are for the children of the same immediate family. Applications may be submitted by a non-family member such as a friend or neighbor. This session will accept applications for 70 percent of the available seats in next year's programs.

For the lottery option, an application for each child must be received by mail or hand delivery by Friday, March 31. The lottery itself will be held on April 21 through a computerized random selection method. Two groups of applications are eligible for this lottery: all applications received by the March 31 deadline, and all applications not accepted through 'first-come first-served" process. Duplicate applications will be discarded. This process will accept applications for 30 percent of the available seats in next year's programs.

Assignment to schools, under either registration process, will be determined on a space available basis within desegregation guidelines. Other individual program requirements, such as the auditions for the Visual and Performing Arts Program, will also determine acceptance into a program. An open house for all magnet schools will be held Sat., March 11.

Members of the Committee to Save the Green Belt will conduct guided tours of the green belt each Saturday. On March 11 at noon, the tour will start at the end of Northway. Call Paul at 474-4653 or Rodney at 345-5427.

What Is A Porcelain Veneer?
The Porcelain Veneer is the newest development in the rapidly expanding technique of bonding. Previously, bonding involved the use of only plastic materials to restore broken sections of teeth or cover surface defects. However, plastics lack the long term durability and color stability offered by porcelain. These desirable qualities, previously available only with porcelain crowns, can now be achieved more conservatively, and at lower cost, with porcelain veneers.

Following careful preliminary evaluation, your dentist may slightly recontour some of the tooth surface to achieve maximum esthetics. Although this involves removal of some enamel, it in no way endangers or weakens the tooth. Many times no alteration is necessary at all. A model is then taken and is used to individually form the veneers. At the next visit the tooth surfaces are chemically treated and the veneers are bonded to the teeth. All steps during bonding require strict control of moisture and avoidance of any contamination of the surfaces to be bonded.

Police Blotter

Investigations by Det./Pfc. Carolyn McLean have resulted in the arrests of several men for sex offenses. A 24-year-old resident was arrested on Mar. 1 and charged with two counts of a third degree sex offense for fondling a 12-year-old girl to whom he is related. The charges were first reported to police on Feb. 19. The man was held in lieu of $10,000 bond pending trial.

Investigation by Detective McLean also led to the arrest of two men charging them with third degree sex offenses and battery. The incident. which occurred on Dec. 26, 1988. involved a young woman employee of AMC 6 Theaters who was pushed into the cleaning supply closet in the theater by two males who then touched her. An 18-year-old nonresident was held in lieu of $3000 bond pending trial. A 14-year-old youth was sent to Boys Village pending a juvenile hearing.

An indecent exposure occurred on Feb. 28 in the 7500 block of Greenway Center Dr. A white man, age 25, with short black hair and a mustache, pulled down his pants in front of another person in the parking lot. He then fled in a black Ford Ranger pickup (Md. tag, RZM — — —).

Two handguns were reported stolen on Feb. 26 from an unlocked display case during a gun show at the Greenbelt National Guard Armory on Greenbelt Road.

Officer Thomas Moreland, Sgt. Danny Love and K-9 Sonny entered the Holy Cross Lutheran Church on Feb. 27 about 11 p.m. after responding to a reported break-in. A window next to the front entrance had been broken. K-9 Sonny located a man in the lobby. Assorted property within the church had been vandalized. The 18-year-old nonresident was released pending trial.

WPGC Is Okay

Numerous calls were received Mar 1 from concerned citizens who believed something was wrong at WPGC's radio station. A record had been skipping for 45 minutes on the air. The radio station is located in the 6300 block of Ivy Lane. Responding officers found everything was fine at the station which was running an attention-getting promotion. Because as many as 100 calls came through 911, tying up their operators, police directed the station personnel to air explanatory messages during the promotion.

Flim Flam

On February first a resident in the 6900 block of Hanover Parkway reported being the victim of a flim flam. The victim, in response to an ad in the News Review, called the suspect to repair his VCR. The suspect then arrived at the victim's residence, took the VCR along with money for parts, but never returned the VCR or the money. In addition, the ads in the newspaper were not paid for After investigation by Det./Pfc. James Parker, an arrest warrant was obtained for the man, age 36, 6 ft. 2 in., 207 lbs., brown hair and brown eyes.

A resident in the 20 Court of Ridge Road reported the theft of her television set on March 2 about 6 p.m. She had called a repair person who took the television and money toward the purchase of two additional sets. The sets were never delivered. A suspect has been identified. Investigation is continuing.

In separate incidents at about 8:15 p.m. on Feb. 27 and 28, a Domino's Pizza delivery man faced attempted theft. On Monday the driver reported that two occupants of a 2-door blue on black Buick got out of the car and approached him demanding his money. The delivery man got into his vehcle and fled. The suspects chased him through Springhill Lake until he lost them. No money was taken and no injuries were reported. The suspects are described as black males, in their 20's, both 6 ft.. with one wearing a long, dark coat. In the Tuesday incident, a passenger of a gray, 2-door Buick (Md. tag. TWL 412) demanded the pizza. without success. The Buick then left the area with its lights out. The passenger is described as a black man with light skin, in his 20's, 5 ft. 10 in., medium build and wearing a pink shirt. Investigation is continuing.

Two men, posing as repossessors, stole a 1982 white Volkswagen convertible (Md. tag, NTC 152) from the BWI lot on Southway. The men are described as: (1) white, age 25, 6 ft. 2 in., 230 lbs., brown hair wearing a black vinyl jacket and blue jeans, and (2) white. early 30's, 5 ft. 8 in., 160 lbs., long black hair. wearing a light brown jacket and blue jeans. They had arrived in an old reddish-brown Chevy Nova.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again,

The week's most frequently asked question: Why do I have to replace the entire exhaust system when the muffler has only a hole or a partcular piece has rotted through the pipes?

The answer: Most of today's exhaust systems come straight from the factory with a one-piece system permanently connected, welded and sealed. Therefore, when it comes time to replace the muffler or tailpipe. it becomes very expensive to salvage the existing pipes.

So catch the problem early. Remember, if you hear strange sounds, smell exhaust fumes inside the car, or notice exhaust fumes exuding from underneath the doors or wheels, that you probably have holes in the exhaust system.

Be safe: Have someone inspect the exhaust system.

Till next time
